

Morning Journal.

BY THE ALBUQUERQUE PUBLISHING CO.

Sunday, October 1, 1882.

Five old portraits drawn from the wood: vines and flowers for family and medicinal use; champagne and cigars at W. E. Talbot's, the only reliable wholesale house in New Mexico.

NUBS OF NEWS.

Mariano Armijo's infant daughter was christened yesterday afternoon.

J. H. Sullivan, Jr., is authorized to collect all bills due Mariano and Jesus Armijo.

Robert Dalton, secretary of the Rio Puerco Mining company, leaves to-day for Copper City.

The general delivery window at the postoffice will be open this morning until 10:30 o'clock.

Attorney Field, of Socorro, is in this city attending the United States court as counsel for Postmaster Lapham.

Mr. A. M. Codrington yesterday purchased an interest in the Copper City Mining company for Codrington and Stover.

Judge Trimble and United States District Attorney Barnes were yesterday out riding together. Both Luna and Manzanera should be informed at once.

The rumor that was current on the streets yesterday of a large fire in Las Vegas was greatly exaggerated. A full account of it will find in the telegraph columns this morning.

William Lilwall last evening made an assignment of all his property for the benefit of his creditors. T. J. Trask and John A. Lee are the assignees. The cause of Mr. Lilwall's troubles are said to be the building of his large hotel and the defalcation of James Hamilton.

Messrs. Putney & Trask are to be the successors of Moore & Bennett. Both members of the new firm are well known to the people of New Mexico as energetic business men, and have hosts of friends all over the territory. They have both had large experience in the business, and the house will be recognized from the start as one of the best in New Mexico.

Edward P. Wells, well known in this city lately as clerk for Charles Etheridge, disappeared on Thursday evening under very mysterious circumstances. Mr. Etheridge was at Silver City whither he had gone on Tuesday. Upon his return he found his office vacant and young Wells gone. The friends of the missing clerk in this city seem to fear that it may be a case of foul play. Wells is about twenty-three years of age, five feet, six inches tall and wears glasses. When last seen he had on a dark coat and vest and light pants.

It is seldom that a mere mining camp like Copper City is so fortunate as to have water works erected for it. A number of months ago an aqueduct was built from the Rio de la Baca over the Eureka mountains to the vicinity of the camp. When the town site was first laid out the small brook running through it was sufficient to supply all the needs, but now it is found necessary to complete the aqueduct. The water was turned into Copper City last week and now the town is supplied with clear spring water brought a distance of nearly ten miles.

Con Caddigan, who went after the bad men from Coyote canon, has been heard from, going south. Two of the men at the canon were arrested, but there was nothing against them, and they were discharged. "The third man, John W. Hillman, alias 'Tex,' escaped and Caddigan was last seen about 5 p. m., Friday evening, in pursuit of his man, and only a short distance behind. Hillman is said to be a balmain, and is wanted in Kansas for murder, a large reward having been offered for his apprehension. Con will collar the fugitive and bring him to this city, providing his horse will last.

The Indian School.

The Indian school will open to-morrow under the most favorable auspices. Yesterday there arrived in this city from Laguna and Acoma pueblos forty-eight Indian children, accompanied by four governors. This year the school starts with fifty-four children, this being a larger number than ever reported before at the beginning of a term. Last year there were fifty-seven children at one time. If the other pueblos send as many in proportion as Laguna and Acoma, there will be nearly one hundred pupils this year. A good indication that the school is well thought of is the fact that all the old pupils of last year have returned for this term. The government cannot be too soon in getting the large building in readiness to receive scholars.

A CARD.

It is to be hoped that the malice of Mr. Saunders, of the Review, reached its height in his last cowardly attack on Miss Katie Pierce, who left many true friends in this city. She goes to fulfill a three months' engagement to Mr. Hutchinson in Arizona. As for me, I now warn him that any more falsehoods in regard to myself will be taken up and dealt with to the full extent of the law. Because Miss Katie chose to ignore his friendship is no reason I should share in his malice. I can furnish letters and credentials and even personal proof as to my character, that will put to flight his flimsy and false statements. A word to the wise is sufficient.

Mrs. Nellie Triplett.

A reading room, supplied with files of the leading papers and periodicals, will be one of the features of the house, besides all conveniences for traveling men, who are invited to make this

EXPOSITION AWARDS.

Official Report of the Committees in all Departments.

All Disputes Settled as to Who Shall Receive the Silver and Copper Medals and the Diplomas.

The Secretary's Explanatory Circular to the Exhibitors and His Report to the Executive Committee.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Sept. 28, 1882.

To the Executive Committee: I submit herewith a transcript of the reports of the awarding committees for the exposition, ending September 23, 1882, from the award books returned by them.

Very respectfully,
D. B. EDMERT, Secretary.

Best exhibit of free milling ore from any one mine in the Territory (tests on the ground), Dr. W. T. Strahan, diploma. Names of committee not reported to the secretary. The committee attached the blue ribbon to the collection exhibited by Nathan Bibb for the best selection from any state or territory in the United States, stating at the same time, as their reasons for the award, that there was no other exhibit entered for that particular premium. It was, however, claimed by exhibitors and others that to be entitled to the award the exhibit must be superior to all others, whether entered for that particular premium or not, and a protest having been made and the committee being absent, another committee was selected to decide on the respective merits of Mr. Bibb's exhibit and that of Ira P. Bond, whose exhibit was entered too late to entitle it to a premium. The proceedings were necessarily irregular, and the following statement was made by two members of the second committee of three, because, although it would have been unjust to award the premium, it was decided that he should not be deprived of all recognition for a technical failure to make a proper entry before the books had passed into the hands of the committee.—[Sec.

STATEMENT.

Explanatory to Exhibitors.

Some of the exhibitors complained because their exhibits received no awards, although they were better than all others of their classes. We could not help that. The rules which were published in the premium lists, and open for inspection to all, for weeks and months, provided that entries should be made before 12 m. the first day, and that no entries could be made after that time, unless in case of unavoidable detention, and then only as late as the books are not in the hands of the committee. We permitted entries to be made, without inquiring as to the cause of delay, until after the award books had passed into the hands of the committees, and out of their control. Special mention has been made by the committees of articles exhibited under such circumstances, in cases of superior merit. They could do more without injustice to the other exhibitors.

Another source of trouble was the failure of the exhibitors to explicitly describe, on their applications, the articles intended to be exhibited and the premiums intended to be competed for. For instance a party would state in his application that he desired to enter sundry vegetables or fruits. This entry would naturally appear opposite the description of collections, when in reality they intended to compete, not only for the best collection, but for the best cabbage, beet, watermelon, apples, peaches, grapes, &c., for all of which premiums were provided. We could not know from such applications whether they intended to compete for anything else than the premium for the general collection, as we did not see the articles intended to be exhibited. We generally called their attention to the premium list, and often asked for each article, but perhaps not so frequently as we would again, after our past experience, although it was no part of our duty, and interfered very materially with real duties that were pressing upon them.

I do not make these explanations because there has been more than the usual complaints, for I do not know that there were, but for the purpose of directing the attention of those who intend to exhibit, to the importance hereafter, of not only carefully examining the premium list, but also the rules published in connection therewith, before they make their entries, and also of being on hand with their exhibits.

Before closing this report, I desire to call special attention to the photographic exhibits forwarded to me by G. M. Shaw, the artist at Socorro. I did not receive them until near noon on Saturday, and the committees had reported, and all I could do was to have them placed in the art gallery, with his card attached.

The underground views taken with artificial light, and the colored photos showing a new and cheap system, were especially interesting, and would undoubtedly have received a first premium if they had arrived in time.

The reason for the absence of awards for some of the articles to the Jesuit Fathers, Mrs. Stover, Mrs. Otero and others, are stated in the reports of the committees.

Attention should also be called to the fine display of the Atlantic & Pacific Company, occupying a space of about forty feet square, none of which was entered for premiums. In addition to their own fine mineral cabinet there were a number of other fine specimens of minerals, agricultural articles, coal, and a splendid collection of painted wood. Added to these were to be seen car wheels, car seats, head lights, and, in fact, nearly all the paraphernalia of a train of cars, nearly all of which was manufactured in their own shop here, some of the machinery with which they were manufactured being also on exhibition.

The clunk of splendid lignite coal taken from the Kirkpatrick mine at Gallup, along the line of the road, which was four feet wide, (the width of the vein) also attracted marked attention, but came too late for entry.

Respectfully,
D. B. EDMERT, Sec'y.

A Good Idea.

It has been suggested that the Mining Exchange take up its quarters on the upper floor of Talbot's magnificent new building, and we think the idea a good one. The place referred to is one of the finest in the west; there is nothing else of the kind in New Mexico that will still compare with it. The upper room, reached by a spiral iron stairway, is the largest hall in the city, is the most elegantly finished and furnished, will always be well lighted and warmed, there will be no gambling and no drunkenness, and those who are acquainted with the proprietor do not need to be told that everything about the premises will be orderly and respectable. If the collection is placed there we understand Mr. Talbot will provide all the necessary cases and shelving for the minerals, at his own expense, and also employ a competent clerk to attend to the collection and answer inquiries, thus in fact defraying all the expenses of the Exchange. In this way the Exchange can secure really elegant quarters, at absolutely no expense.

To Our Patrons and the Public in General.

We intend to raffle off the two elegant white and black gros grain silk dresses, valued at $250 each, which took the first premium at the last exposition. To all our patrons who trade with us to the amount of $20 at one time we will present a ticket in this value to raffle free of charge. Tickets also for sale at our Palace Store, price $2; 100 tickets will only be issued for each dress. All our goods will be sold at prices to defy any and every competition. Respectfully,

LOCAL NOTICES.

A CYCLONE CHAT.

Exciter sent on First Street over a New Thing Turned Loose.

In passing up First street last night our reporter noticed a large crowd going in and out of the Cyclone Grocery House. Upon entering he saw the store crowded and the clerks all busy. After asking prices and numerous questions, the reporter went home a wiser man, and will henceforth advise his friends to buy their groceries at the "Cyclone" of Bell & Co., who sell groceries only.

Reporter.—Good evening, Mr. Bell.
Mr. Bell.—Good evening, Mr. Journal man.

Reporter.—Well, how do you like our town?
Mr. Bell.—I think it the Chicago of the southwest. She reminds one of a large city, and her citizens have the snap in 'em.

Reporter.—How do you find trade?
Mr. Bell.—Elegant, my boy; beyond our most sanguine expectations.

Reporter.—Glad to hear that you are enjoying such a fine trade; but Mr. Bell, business men can do business in any city.

Mr. Bell.—Thank you; you folks know how to give new comers taffy.

Reporter.—I see you have named your store the "Cyclone"?

Mr. Bell.—Yes, Sir. The people of this city want quick action, and the Cyclone will be known in every hamlet in New Mexico before the snow flies.

Reporter.—From whom do you expect your trade—native or American?

Mr. Bell.—Yes, Sir. I am sure that, saint or sinner, will all receive a welcome in our house. Our exhibition is free to all.

Reporter.—I noticed you had quite a lot of ladies in your store to-day.

Mr. Bell.—Yes, Sir. You see, we are the only grocery house in your city. We know our business and make a specialty of groceries. We have been catering to the wants of the public for many years.

Reporter.—I see nearly all your goods are marked in plain figures?

Mr. Bell.—Yes, Sir. We propose to give every one a square deal.

Reporter.—You are selling goods cheap?

Mr. Bell.—Now you are shouting. I tell you it don't pay to buy out an old stock. Fresh, clean goods will sell themselves.

Reporter.—Have you another store in the Territory?

Mr. Bell.—Most assuredly. We have a store in Las Vegas, had two stores there, and a bakery, but recently disposed of me of them, and concluded to try your town. We are glad we came, and propose to stay.
